This is a terrific example, the fruit more lifted and plum liqueur and pudding-like than what Tawny offers. Make the effort to try this with chocolate truffles and keep the vintage style alive.

From the vines that produced the original vintage back in 1928, their prized, highly flavoured grapes continue to produce excellence. As the tasting note says: it's a rich and heady mix, embracing and warming, just waiting for the chill of night and an open fire. The fine, low strength brandy spirit added after pressing plays a wonderful supporting role. I savoured each mouthful.

Dark purple. Pungent, intensely perfumed aromas of black and blue fruits, cherry compote, cola, licorice and an exotic touch of apricot. Lush, palate-coating cassis and boysenberry flavors show serious depth and sweetness, with molasses and candied violet notes adding complexity. Surprisingly energetic for a sweet wine, finishing with impressive thrust and lingering florality.
